

INTRODUCTION

The form of our Meteorological Bulletin as adopted in 1907 and modified in 1914 will be retained. Unless otherwise stated, by daily rainfall in the Philippines we mean the amount of rainfall for 24 hours beginning 6 a. m. The time used is that of the one hundred and twentieth meridian east of Greenwich.

Since 1931, the Bulletin contains at times under the title of Meteorological notes, short papers of meteorological character.

The following is a list of all the official meteorological stations as they existed in January, 1940, together with the names of the respective observers who are in a great measure responsible for the accuracy of the observations published in this Bulletin.

<sup>1</sup> For the sake of uniformity in cases in which the station is not situated in a town, the name of the barrio, sitio, or place of the station will invariably be followed by the name of the municipality, municipal district, or township to which it belongs. In the tables of Daily Rainfall, the name of the corresponding province will always be added after the name of the town.
