

MINUTA OF MEXICO, PAMPANGA

- 1757 - During the presidency of Martin Arcilla, ash fell in Mexico.
- 1796 - During the administration of Diego Lising, an earthquake made up of 20 shakings was experienced in Mexico.
- 1812 - On February 1st, 1812, there was a fall of the ashes, which are called salvarera.
- 1821 - There was an eclipse of the sun, during the incumbency of Juan Canda.
- 1832 - The town of Mexico was flooded.
- 1843 - A comet was visible for a month.
- 1844 - In the bisextile year 1844 the day December 31, Tuesday, was suppressed, as per circular instructions received from Spain. The Tuesday was considered as passed, and the new year was made to begin on Wednesday. The succession of days was this: Tuesday was dropped; new year began on Wednesday; Thursday and Friday followed; the ^{day} that would have been called Saturday if no change had been made, was called Sunday: the Sunday was called Monday, which was January the 6th and the feast of the three Kings.
- 1850 - Strong winds blew over Mexico the very date of its patronal feast. The procession could not come out.
- 1852 - In the month of August it rained very hard. The very day of the heavy rain, there was an earthquake with 7 shakings so intense that the bells of the church rang by themselves.